THE IMPORTANCE OF HEAT RECOVERY VENTILATION

HEAT RECOVERY VENTILATION SYSTEMS

O'Leary Ventilation have become one of Ireland's leading Heat Recovery Ventilation specialists, utilizing Europe's leading ventilation equipment brand Vent-Axia in the installation process.

In addition to numerous private dwellings, down through the years O'Leary Ventilation have supplied Ventilation equipment to guest houses, hotels and leisure centres, restaurants, shops, veterinary and medical centres, offices, banks and Governments buildings to name but a few.

"People spend up to 80% of their time indoors - adequate ventilation must be provided in a building for the well being of its occupants - without adequate ventilation, high levels of humidity and condensation build up and create a trap for indoor pollutants and contaminants" Aengus explained.

Today's highly insulated (almost airtight) houses come with many problems such as condensation, mildew growth and health problems. These are all caused by high levels of humidity & stagnant air in your home.

If you improve the insulation of your property to a high degree all will be fine for the first six to ten months. What will occur then will be a buildup of moisture thus causing the problems above which are worldwide.

ELIMINATION OF CONDENSATION & MILDEW GROWTH

A properly designed heat recovery ventilation system will eliminate all of these problems. As air is extracted from all wet areas of the house such as bathrooms, kitchen and utility this air is passed through a heat exchanger and through to atmosphere. This in turn warms up the heat exchanger and while a fresh cooler air is supplied from atmosphere through the same heat exchanger, it in turn heats up and is supplied back in to bedroom, living room and dining area. As fresh air warms up it automatically drops in humidity thus eliminating completely all condensation and mildew growth. As humidity levels drop in the house you decrease the breathing ground for the dust mite thus improving greatly the air quality for all householders

"Heat Recovery Systems operate effectively in summer and winter; without opening your windows, you can still be assured of excellent, clean, fresh air in your home.

"While people may be encouraged to insulate, they should first give us a call as a Heat Recovery System may prove more beneficial in a home with regards to air quality, dampness, home-heating costs and the health of your family" Aengus explained.

"Often attic and wall insulation may effectively encourage poor air quality by eliminating conventional air movement. Heat Recovery Systems improves your heating efficiency and costs, improves air quality, protects the value of your home and protects your family's health - it's an all-round solution. For more information or for a quotation contact Aengus and his team on 064-7758429 or 087-2512272. More information is also available at their website www.allvent.com.
